

What is Safe Living?

(1) SAFE LIVING RYS is a project focused on crime prevention and security-problem solving in larger housing estates with mostly prefab multi-apartment buildings. The targeted buildings are typical for the post-socialist countries' architecture of 70 and 80-ties of the past century with condominium type of ownership.

(2) The main idea of the project is to keep the potential offender as far from residents as possible, meaning to stop such an individual at the main entrance and not at the apartment door.

SAFE LIVING RYS

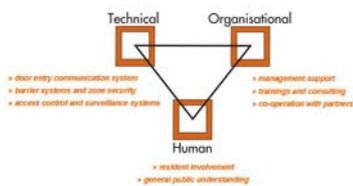

The main idea of the project is to keep the potential offender as far from residents as possible, to stop such an individual at the main entrance and not at the apartment door.

(3) This idea has become the starting point for compiling the basic construction of the project with three supporting pillars – technical pillar built upon technical solutions, organisational pillar which includes management support and training for owners associations and building managers and the last but very important is the human pillar which represents the residents involvement and general public understanding.

Why it all began?

(4) After political changes in 1989 in Slovakia, also the changes in ownership of apartment buildings came along. The ownership of many apartment buildings changed into condominium type, where each apartment is owned by the individual resident with shared ownership of common areas of the building. The first owners' associations were established represented by the owners committees, which had to learn how to take care of the apartment building, its management, and maintenance and also how to improve and sustain the safety and security of the residents.

SAFE LIVING RYS[®]

Why it all began?

The ownership in many apartment buildings has changed into a condominium type, apartments are owned by the individual residents.

The owners associations had to learn how to manage the apartment buildings and how to improve and sustain the safety and security of its residents.

(5) The excessive anonymity in the large housing estates and widely spread property crimes, especially breaking and entering, theft, vandalism but also violent crimes, domestic violence, assaults, rape and obtrusive drug-related crimes negatively affected the residents and reflected badly on the community life. The weak protection of the apartment buildings against unauthorised entries attracted homeless, burglars and troublemakers to come right inside the buildings, where they found their hideouts but unfortunately also the objects of their criminal activities.

SAFE LIVING RYS[®]

Anonymity and poor security

The housing estates suffered from excessive anonymity, widely spread property and drug-related crimes and weak protection of the apartment buildings against unauthorised entries.

Poor security, anonymity and open doors attracted homeless, burglars and troublemakers.

www.bezpecnebyvanie.sk

How it all began?

(6) It all began in one apartment building in Petrzalka. Petrzalka is one of the largest housing estates in Europe with concentration of 130 000 residents spread in the area of 29 km² and with the country's largest fluctuation of inhabitants and as a consequence of that the great anonymity. Since we had a long-time experience with technical solutions of multi-apartment building security, the residents of this particular apartment building asked us to help them with handling their problems that varied from arson, drug dealing, breaking and enterings and other sorts of criminal abuse and also poor human relations among the residents. The preparation of the pilot technical and organisational implementation of security measures took place from 2000 till 2002, when the installation and repair works were finished. Up until now the taken measures have positive effect, but it is also the result of the tireless interest of the owners committee to uphold the good level of safety and security in the building. We keep supporting them with innovative solutions for the hardware and software tools of access control and of course new approaches to management support which we instantly try to improve.

SAFE LIVING RYS[®]

How it all began?

It all began in one of the largest housing estates in Europe - in Bratislava Petrzalka, in an apartment building trying to tackle with arson, drug dealing, breaking and enterings and poor human relations.

The preparation of the pilot technical and organisational implementation of security measures took place from 2000 till 2002, when the main installation and repair works were finished.

www.bezpecnebyvanie.sk

(7) Working on the pilot implementations we realised how important it is to use the knowledge of the residents about the life in and around the apartment building, the habits and behaviour of the individuals and compile all these information into the technical solutions, positioning and operating modes of the access control and surveillance systems. But also we had to make sure that the information gathered from the systems would be used effectively for purposes of building management and the law enforcing authorities.

www.bezpecnebyvanie.sk

Where is the project implemented?

(8) The targeted area is the mentioned housing estate Petržalka and the apartment building with average of 64 up to 120 flats. As a result of successful pilot implementation the project has disseminated in a very natural way among the estate residents with help of small but very well targeted publicity. Later the project spread outside Petržalka to other Bratislava districts and to other larger cities as well. At the present time there is over 1000 apartment buildings involved in the project using the set of technical solutions, management methods and following security and safety recommendations that project offers.

www.bezpecnebyvanie.sk

Who are our project partners?

(9) The most important partners in the project are the residents of the multi-apartment buildings. Of course, we have developed professional partnerships, we co-operate with local police departments, municipality offices, fire departments and we have a great support from the State Council on Crime Prevention of Slovak republic, which, based on our initiative, establish an Expert team for crime prevention and safe living.

www.bezpecnebyvanie.sk

(10) The co-operation with the local Police departments has very specific character, it includes

- registered access of Police officers into the secured apartment buildings with a possibility to control the time and date of the police officers entries, this can be checked by the owners committees or building managers,

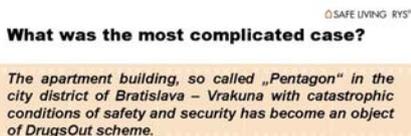

- signposting the apartment buildings with a special registered sign which says "This building is under closer watch of Police", this has very good preventive effect
- annual meetings of police representatives with members of the owners committees to discuss the problems in the neighbourhood,
- presence of local police officers at the tenants meetings due to resolve the hot problems quickly,
- assisting to crime investigation, this is based on good and well managed communication with owners committees, building managers, installer companies and the ability to effectively use installed technical equipment and set security measures. We set up also a special web site for registering the electronic identifiers used in the secured buildings. This site has helped in several cases to identify the offenders or victims , or it just helped to return the lost property to the owner, e.g. lost or stolen keys, handbags etc.

What was the most complicated case?

(11) The most complicated case so far has been an apartment building, so called Pentagon, located in the city district of Bratislava – Vrakuňa. The security and safety of this building was in catastrophic conditions. In 2006, when we were appointed by the local municipality authorities to prepare a project which got the characteristic name DrugsOut, there were 183 flats with 68 % of rent dodgers who owned 65000 Eur on electricity, water and gas bill. Ironically, most of them were also the apartment owners.

www.bezpecnebyvanie.sk

(12) The devastation of common shared areas cost the building over 31000 EUR. In period of 8 months of 2006, over 180 crimes were committed inside the building or its close neighbourhood. 427 persons were taken in for questioning by the police and there was drug dealing reported in 16 flats.

www.bezpecnebyvanie.sk

(13) This scheme is implemented in very close co-operation with police and local municipality government especially due to very difficult neighbourhood. The scheme had several stages, in 2010 we will work on technical improvement of the installed systems and their resistance to very harsh physical attacks. We have also started a new scheme focused on the social prevention and with assistance of Expert team for crime prevention and safe living we are trying to initiate the legislative changes that would support our project activities.

www.bezpecnebyvanie.sk

Why are changes in legislation necessary?

(14) The security in the apartment buildings is dependent not only on the advanced technology but in first place on the abilities and wiliness of the residents to behave in a way that does not endanger their health, does not damage their property and does not decrease the standard of their housing. However, all their efforts, police or municipality efforts must be in accordance with the law and with support of the law.

After securing hundreds of apartment buildings, we have run into two fundamental problems of insufficient legislation, what very significantly complicates introducing strict rules for access control in apartment buildings in practise.

1. The first one is the disharmony of the fire prevention and crime prevention legal norms.
2. the second is the lack of or completely missing legal definition of unauthorised entry into the multi-apartment building.

2. missing legal definition of unauthorised entry into the multi-apartment building.

www.bezpecnebyvanie.sk

What is the conflict between Fire and Crime in practise?

(15) The main entrance is used also as an emergency exit in many apartment building, many of them have one entrance only. It is impossible to use 100% access control on such entrances. The door must enable safe exit without any obstructions to any person inside the building in case of emergency. The problem is to create such security measures which will provide safe exit in emergency but not 24hours a day when there is no emergency. The devices and systems of emergency exits installed are often and very easily misused.

What is the conflict between Fire and Crime prevention in practise?

It is not possible to sustain sufficient security on main entrances used also as emergency exits.

If an individual with bad intentions gets inside the apartment building and commits a crime, there is nothing stopping him from leaving the premises freely...
There is nothing that would make him behave any different from a regular visitor leaving their friends' apartment.

www.bezpecnebyvanie.sk

(16) What happens very often in practise is that despite very high quality access control system individuals with bad intentions get inside the apartment building. They get there very simply, walking in along with an elderly resident, along a child coming back from school, along a mum with a pushchair. These are the groups of residents who are not able to physically prevent entries of such individuals, because they are worried and scared, especially when the person entering along with them is some well-built man. If this individual commits a crime inside the building there is nothing stopping him from leaving the premises freely. There is nothing that would make him behave any different from a regular visitor leaving their friends' apartment.

Questions for you:

1. Do you have similar problems in your country with following both fire and crime prevention regulation when securing entrances in apartment buildings?
2. How do you overcome this problem?

Questions for you ... fire vs. crime

1. Do you meet with similar problem of fire and crime prevention regulations in your country?
2. How do you overcome the problem related to misuse of emergency exit systems?

What is an unauthorised entry?

(17) The unauthorised entry issue follows up with the fire vs crime prevention problem. The apartment building and its peripheral boundaries are not defined by the law unlike the other forms of private ownership, e.g. family house, office building or industrial premises. The shared common areas in the apartment building such as the halls, stairways, lifts are frequently referred to areas accessible to the public, i.e. accessible to anybody who decides to enter the building.

The question is, if it is possible to consider for being accessible to the public also the common areas of apartment building which the owners secured by means of technical equipment proclaiming the boundary of their private property which they do not want to make accessible to anyone but the authorised persons and legitimate visitors.

SAFE LIVING RYS*

What is an unauthorised entry?

The peripheral boundaries of an apartment building are not defined by the law unlike the other forms of private ownership, e.g. a family house, an office building or industrial premises.

The common areas in the apartment building such as the halls, stairways, lifts are frequently referred to areas accessible to the public.

The rights of the residents / apartment owners and police are not clear if it comes to unauthorised or force entries into common areas.

www.bezpecnebyvanie.sk

(18) The residents - owners of such secured apartment buildings regard the unauthorised entry as any intentional entry without authorisation. It can be either a forced entry or sneaking into to the building usually passing by the authorised person. The owners are not sure what their rights are or what the law enforcement authorities' rights are in case of an unauthorised entry into common areas of the apartment building, if the person who has entered the building without permission can be ordered to leave or be forced to leave the premises, how to regard the forcible opening of the main entrance door (kicking down the door) or any other forcible and damaging behaviour towards the owners property this person commits in order to accomplish unauthorised entry.

(For example very common problem in winter is with the homeless, who always find the way to get inside the apartment building. If the residents do not manage to make them leave they usually call the police, where they get the answer that the police is not here to solve the problem with homeless and the police officers are not security guards. ..)

Some more questions for you:

1. How is a forced entry into the apartment building understood in your legislation?
2. What is the sanction (if any) for or what is the action against a person who enters the apartment building without the owner's or resident's permission in your country?
3. What are the police rights in case of unauthorised entry into the apartment building in your country?

What is the solution?

(19) The solution for both problems is a little complicated. It takes not just the very correct implementation of the existing laws but it is also necessary to prepare new ones that will take into consideration the development in the apartment building security. We have used all legitimate security measures including the co-operation with police, fire departments, local municipality governments, in spite of all our activities the measures taken are not sufficient enough.

Based on our initiative, the Expert team for crime prevention and save living has proposed amendment to property law concerning the shared ownership of apartment buildings and criminal law.
